Synopsis

"Where is your contract?" "What is your proof?"

Issues arise on construction projects all the time. If not effectively managed, these issues may escalate into disputes.

Lawyers assisting with early management of issues or with dispute resolution often ask ... many questions. Do you wonder why the lawyers ask for what they do?

In this webinar, we will discuss various issues commonly encountered on construction projects.

We will first have a brief look at the typical contract documents used for a construction project, and why the relevant contract is usually the first document which the lawyers need to be given. Next, we will consider claims relating to variations, delays, defects and back charges, and how to successfully prove these claims. Join us as we discuss the latest case law and what the law requires to be proven for these claims to be successful. You will then gain a good grasp of what proof to gather, or otherwise be able to discern if claims are validly made.
